Devotional:

He will see you through:

William was a young man that stuttered badly in his early life. He was mocked often. He refused to be discouraged. He found a job as a shoemaker's apprentice. Later, he met and fell in love with a girl named Dorothy. But Dorothy was discovered to have a mental illness. William nevertheless labored on until one day, he read a book on Captain Cook's journal about an explorer. He envisioned the needs of humans in far away lands and began to pray that the Lord would use him. He was refused help by his local church who saw him as unfit. He spent years learning foreign languages and was licensed to preach. His motto was "Expect great things from God. Attempt great things for God." Life was hard for William. His first and second wives both died. He had made only a handful of converts. He translated the bible into 34 different languages at aged 73, founded a college, and worked to free the women of India. Today there is a statue near India's parliament building in his name. He is known as the father of Modern Missions. His name is William Carey, a former shoemaker. "Whoever comes to me I will never cast out." (John 6:37b) If the Lord has placed a work on your heart stay with it. He will see you through. Be encouraged.
