Allergens are substances such as pollen, dust, mold, pet dander, or certain foods that can trigger allergic reactions. Allergic reactions occur when the immune system overreacts to these substances, causing symptoms like sneezing, itching, swelling, or hives. In people with asthma, exposure to allergens can irritate the airways, leading to coughing, wheezing, chest tightness, and difficulty breathing. Avoiding known allergens and following prescribed treatment plans can help reduce symptoms and prevent asthma attacks. BREATHE EASY
